

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Eclectic Los Angeles-based Indie/Chamber Pop ensemble Garretson & Gorodetsky to release new single "Weight Of The World."

Featuring singer Weba Garretson (The Eastside Sinfonietta), guitarist Ralph Gorodetsky (Universal Congress Of), Vince Meghrouni (Mike Watt, The BellRays) performing a swirling, hypnotic flute accompaniment, bassist Laura Grissom (Tune To Me) and drummer Brian Christopherson (Saccharine Trust.) Garretson & Gorodetsky's upbeat, haunting new single "Weight Of The World" was recently recorded at the renowned Hollywood studio Gold-Diggers Sound with producer/engineer Ed McEntee (Jon Spencer Blues Explosion, Yoko Ono) and producer/mixer Mark Wheaton (Nels Cline, Ann Magnuson.) Guest musician Jonathan Lea (Tall Poppy Syndrome, Dave Davies) later added the groovin' "spy film"-style baritone guitar to the recording.

The group has been writing and performing new material over the past year, creating songs that contain angular elements of blues, soul and chamber pop, resulting in a modern version of a sound originally made popular by Love, Traffic, Jefferson Airplane and others.

"Weight Of The World" is the first of several singles that the group plans to release this year.

In describing the idea behind the lyrics, Weba says "I started by writing about Atlas holding the world...but then I thought about my mother holding me when I was young and then holding her hand as she was dying. That's what carrying the weight of the world means to me. It's a way of understanding how we are connected, how we share this life, this planet." Ralph, the co-writer, describes the song as musically being "a sonic combination of 60's guitar riff rock and moodier classical textures."

"Weight Of The World" will be released to digital music services on February 16, 2024 (arriving at radio on February 2.)
